Putting our best Eco foot forward!

Our Eco Warriors have done it again!

The Eco-Team, with support from pupils, staff and governors at Colsterworth Primary School, have achieved their Silver Award from the Eco-Schools Programme.

Mrs Sarah Moore, Executive Headteacher said "To achieve this award the children throughout school engaged in a range of Eco themed activities linked to caring for many aspects of our environment. These have included daily 'Travel Tracker' which has seen an amazing percentage of our children walking, cycling, scootering or walking after a car journey from further away from school than before. So many of our children have earned badges for reducing traffic and car journeys – a big well done to them. We have also been involved in 'Waste Week' and all classes produced work to remind us of the effects of food waste and 'Switch Off Fortnight' to encourage the reduction in energy use in school and at home. Classes have produced wonderful work on designing and making models of eco-houses, made videos to encourage others to think about eco themes and topics and have thought about being Agents of Change by making small steps towards helping our planet. The amazing children at Colsterworth even continued their enthusiasm for all things eco by taking part in the RSPB's Big Birdwatch and completing activities on SeeSaw during school closure.

More recently the children have engaged in projects such as The Big Pedal and Earth Day – Colsterworth Primary School certainly has the Eco Wow Factor. The Eco Team, Mrs Abbey and Mrs Nichols are now working towards Eco-School's Green Flag Award...watch this space!

Our Eco Team and whole school community are thrilled to be Agents of Change!"

INSPIRING WOMEN

Will he? Won't he? No he didn't, so hopes of having a normal meeting were dashed again. But not to miss out we thought, Shall we, should we? With short notice we aimed to have a picnic. However, as we go to Press, we are still not sure if the event will go ahead as usual all picnics are dependent on the weather, but the forecast seems promising. So as you read this July edition of In Touch, you will know by now, if we did or if we didn't manage to meet, not indoor at the Sports & Social Club but outdoors. If we did pull it off, read next months In Touch to see what we got up to!

We are looking forward to the next appearance of BJ with the news we would like to hear. "As you were", as we were before this horrendous spell in the history of the world. We have managed to keep other bugs and germs, over the years, at bay with vaccines - thanks to the clever scientists. Let's hope that we will be able to do the same with Covid-19 by having a regular "jab". We must remember to tip our hat to each and everyone of the army of scientists, doctors and nurses who worked day and night to reach their goal. We owe them, everyone of them.

Wow, what news from our Head Office? There are on-line classes on a wide variety of subjects – preserves, sewing, photography, shaker cards and Hampton Court. They are all on zoom, courses are from one hour duration and cost only £5 and you don't have to be a WI member to join them. If you are interested just google: <https://www.denman.org.uk/whats-on/>

Our bulb order was sent off, but slapped legs for the one forgetting to add her signature to that of the Treasurer. At least County Federation saw the funny side and accepted the lack of concentration, memory and downright stupidity of the guilty "you know who you are". Well, we've all done it haven't we? That's my excuse anyway.

We heard news of Dyke WI who have completed a wall hanging to celebrate their 60th Birthday. I hope that they didn't have the headaches we experienced when we made ours back at the turn of the century.

From our Climate Ambassadors we hear that multipurpose compost contains between 70 – 100% peat. From 2024 the sale of peat compost will be banned. The Lincs Wildlife Trust have details of how to be peat free and from where to buy peat free compost. Trying to revitalise my garden I have seen the differences between the different sorts of compost you can get. I think one bag I had was full of someone's grass roots: as fast as I pull it up, there it is again next morning. I suppose I could have laid a lawn with the contents.

Are any of our members entering the Lady Denman Cup competition this year I wonder? I like the title "Let me show you what a woman can do". The piece of writing fact or fiction, in any style, based on a painting by Artemisia Gentileschi which is a self-portrait of the artist as St Catherine of Alexandria. Held in the National Gallery. With today's news of violence and murder and such daily, it just shows that man/woman kind hasn't moved on since the 17th Century. Entries to the Sleaford office by 30th July please.

Wow, IF we get the go ahead to meet IN the Sports and Social Club on 20th July, our speaker will be Colin Young with his talk on "Behind the scenes at Bargain Hunt". The competition will be an item coloured orange. Member, or not, you will be most welcome and won't it be nice to see each other face to face, maybe unmasked even.

Come on BJ let us loose for goodness sake we can't take much more. After shopping in a local supermarket (only the fourth time I had gone solo, after having my shopping either brought to me or going with a carer) I was incensed to hear a security office talking to a colleague and using bad language so I told him what I thought of him. AND they weren't social distancing and I couldn't get to the postbox which they were obstructing. I told him to use the offending verb in its proper context in an appropriate place not in the entrance to a supermarket. I would never have spoken up before, it must have been having been cooped up for so long, exasperation call it whatever, but thinking about it maybe I should enter the Denman Cup competition, given the subject title.

NATURAL HISTORY BULLETIN

Our parishes are important for the remnants of limestone grassland which have survived development of roads, housing, quarrying and agriculture. None of these has been entirely negative. Roads have left verges with scarce plants. Quarrying left bare limestone where plants which couldn't competition survived. Sadly Glebe quarry was filled in years ago and more recently others have gone to landfill, but pockets remain for surprises like woolly thistle and bladder campion. In some cases where grassland has gone under the plough, conservation headlands have been left. Sheep grazing is also sympathetic to a diversity of plants. Housing development would seem to leave no room for scarce native plants and for the butterflies and other insects which depend on them. Part of the Colster Way estate was built over ancient grassland, remnants of which were left in lawns and verges. At the end of June you will see an area beautiful with white ox-eye daisies above yellow trefoils hiding the bee orchids. This is thanks to the efforts of one person who recognised what was coming up in front of his own house. He persisted over many years, and changes in householders to persuade some of his neighbours to leave areas unmown until later in the year. The result is glorious. The River Witham as it flows from its source at South Witham, through North Witham and Colsterworth and on to Grantham is special. It flows clear and supports life which cannot survive pollutants, or the introduction of non-native species. The vulnerable native crayfish lives here, water voles have survived an influx of mink, the insect life is food for the grey wagtails which nest on its banks. Each pollution incident is a grave threat as is the introduction of aggressive non-native species like the signal crayfish. Dead white crayfish were found in Colsterworth this June and this was reported to the Environment Agency. There did not seem to be evidence of pollution. The cause may have been the combination of hot weather and shallow water driving out oxygen from the water but there is also the fear that Signal Crayfish have got in.

June can be overwhelming for the abundance of flowers, insects and young birds. Yellow Rattle, which is a hemiparasite and reduces the success of vigorous grasses, is welcome on the Protected Roadside Verges. In the gardens reports of nesting robins, wrens, blackbirds, starlings, jackdaws, blue and great tits, chaffinch and goldfinch, collared doves and wood pigeons. By third week of June many rearing second broods. The blackbirds have provided much interest and enjoyment with their songs continuing after others have fallen silent. An anxious watch is on for House martins and swallows. Last year early broods failed because not enough mud for nest building. This year cool wet weather meant insufficient insect food. Swifts fortunately returned in numbers

Holly Blue and Common Blues emerged almost together the former being later than usual. Brimstones and Small Tortoiseshells appeared in new livery, this years brood. Day flying moths like the Cinnabar were in gardens and the caterpillars of web spinning moths like the lackey were not welcome on garden shrubs.

To Look for in July. The day the newly fledged Swifts join their parents in the sky before the latter leave on migration. Dragon and Damselflies. Any sightings of cuckoos, which also leave early and have not been heard much this year. I look forward to hearing from you at 61 Woolsthorpe Road, 860465, e-mail jnostler@hotmail.co.uk

Yellow Rattle

Lost Black Cat Found

We want to thank all friends and neighbours in Woolsthorpe and Colsterworth for caring enough about our lost cat to check their outhouses from 24th May onwards to see if she had got herself locked in anywhere. In actual fact she had escaped far away - we will never actually know where to or how - and was discovered 19 days later in Great Ponton, by a family who started feeding her. Luckily for us they were honest enough to ask their friend, an RSPCA Officer, to check her for a chip which led her back to us! So she is now back in the village, we hope to stay!
